NEWS GATHERED FROM SOUTHSIDE

New Filtration Plant Will Be In Operation by Next Week.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON RAIL

Mr. Bradbury, a Flagman on the Southern Railroad, Had His Leg Cut Off.

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch.

The new filtration plant for Manchester is about ready for work. Mr. C. P. E. Burgwyn, the engineer who has looked after the construction of the plant, says it will be open for operation by next week.

The tests being made at the plant thus far have been most satisfactory. Mr. Wells, who is in charge of the work for the Roberts Manufacturing Company, is much pleased with the result of the tests. The plant requires an engine to operate it and, of course, an engineer is absolutely necessary. The plant will also require two additional men as station-men.

The citizens of Manchester will be very glad that the city will by next week have a large supply of crystal-like water.

College Offers Scholarship.

Principal George Carrington Moseley, of the Manchester High School, received a letter yesterday morning, stating that the Randolph-Macon Woman's College, of Lynchburg, had offered a scholarship to a girl graduate of this school, to be recommended by Professor Moseley.

In the past few weeks, Mr. Moseley received other communications from various colleges, offering scholarships to boy graduates.

Had Leg Cut Off.

Mr. D. E. Bradbury, of this city, who is a flagman on the Southern Railroad, had his leg cut off at Paele's, Va., at 2:30 o'clock, yesterday morning.

Bradbury had fixed the switch for his train to make the siding and was attempting to get on the engine, when he slipped, fell and was run over. He was taken to the Danville hospital.

Stars—Trego.

Miss Annie Trego, a popular young lady of Manchester, who is married to Rudolph Stars, of Lynchburg, was married in the home of the bride, No. 991 Bainbridge Street, yesterday afternoon.

Cutting Scrape.

Alice Hughes, colored, was arrested Tuesday night by Policeman Waymack on the charge of cutting Henry Shepperson. The accused man did not appear in court yesterday morning on account of his condition. It seems that Hughes and Shepperson became engaged in a row, and the former used a knife and inflicted several gashes upon the person of Shepperson. His wounds were dressed by Dr. Owen.

Company Wins Case.

Mr. E. H. Wells, local counsel, and Mr. E. R. Williams, division counsel for the Seaboard Air Line, appeared before Judge Watson in the Chesterfield Circuit Court Tuesday and opposed the motion of Shepperson to have the railroad construct and maintain a bridge over its tracks connecting one section of her farm with another. After considerable argument it was ascertained that the cost of the bridge would be an unnecessary burden on the road in excess of the benefits to the petitioner. The decision made by Judge Watson was that the road need not build the bridge.

Funeral of Mr. Buchanan.

The funeral of Mr. Charles A. Buchanan, who died Tuesday morning at his residence, No. 107 Perry Street, took place from the home yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. J. F. Fox, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. The interment was made in Maury Cemetery.

Mrs. W. A. Clarke died Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home, near Tomahawk Baptist Church, in Chesterfield county. Mrs. Clarke had been an invalid for twenty-five years, and she was seventy-six years of age. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Tomahawk Baptist Church, and the interment will be made in the burial plot in the church-yard.

CONTEMPT ORDER.

Judge Grinnan Requires "Loyalists" to Answer.

In the Chancery Court yesterday Judge Daniel Grinnan entered an order requiring what is known as the "Loyalists" of the Junior Order United American Mechanics to appear before His Honor on March 13th, to show cause, if any they can, why they are not in contempt of his court.

The right is one of great interest to the city in Virginia, and has been in court in various ways for some time. The decision of Judge Grinnan means that the officers of what is known as the "Loyalists" must answer to His Honor for contempt of his court.

The cause for the popular distrust of physicians, the defective and imperfectly enforced health and medical laws resulting, and the disastrous consequences attending the lack of domestic medicine, increasing the sick and death rate in many communities, are made impressive by illustrations drawn from a large personal and official experience.

At these meetings the curious intimate complex relations to the people of the individual physician and of the profession as a whole are freely and frankly discussed, and the defects of the profession are pointed out. The danger to the people from poverty in the profession, and their part in practical measures for relief of this evil, are frankly discussed and fully appreciated. In a word, Dr. McCormack takes the public into his confidence and shows its deep concern in every interest of the profession. He shows up fraud and quackery in their true light, and the "patent medicine" evil is pointed out. At the conclusion of his talk there is always free discussion by laymen representing the leaders of public opinion, who are ever found in sympathetic accord and ready to pledge cordial assistance in the great reform work that has been proposed.

The local authorities are of the opinion that Miller had an outside friend, and that his means of escape was not altogether because of his skill or by his cleverness, but rather the result of a goodly amount of money spent lavishly by friends of the leader of the alleged baggage-stealing gang.

A special from New York last night, however, declared that the police of that city had declined the idea, that the men had bought their way out.

Allen, who was in the cell with Miller, was captured. He had got out of the jail when Miller was being taken to justice. Allen cannot be tried. Miller is the pivot around which the gigantic baggage-stealing swindle swung, and it is estimated that in the sum of $25,000, and which had been refused him by escaped from the jail.

While it is said that there is nothing significant about the fact, it is known that Miller is a native of New York, who often visited the prison.

Lewis Rodgers, the young man here, is deeply interested in the escape of Miller. He had been selling printed material about the case, but he does not intend to publish it.

DR. McCORMACK TO EXPOSE QUACKERY

Secretary of the American Medical Association to Deliver Three Addresses in Richmond.

GOV. TO PRESENT SPEAKER

Will Expose Quackery in Medical Profession and Tell Many Medical Secrets.

A lecturer of more than usual note who will be in Richmond on March 23 will be Dr. J. N. McCormack, field secretary of the American Medical Association. Dr. McCormack will make three addresses during the day, speaking distinctively to the medical students, the medical profession and to the public.

Dr. McCormack's trip to Richmond is under the joint arrangement of Dr. Christopher Tompkins, dean of the Medical College of Virginia, and Dr. Stuart McGuire, president of the University College of Medicine. Both of these gentlemen speak of Dr. McCormack in the highest terms as a speaker of note and a physician of national reputation, and regard his coming to Richmond as an event of great interest, not only to the medical profession, but to the public generally.

Governor Swanson has consented to introduce the speaker, and it is understood that the Governor will take this opportunity to outline his own views with regard to certain changes in the State Board of Health, and in the State's interest in the care of the public health. Governor Swanson has expressed to Dr. McGuire and others his interest in having Dr. McCormack here, and his hope that the address may lead to more scientific and up-to-date interest in municipal and State sanitation, quarantine, and care of public health.

Who the Speaker Is.

Dr. McCormack is said to be a native of Augusta county, Va., and married the daughter of a prominent family. He is a Virginian, has for some time made his home at Bowling Green, Ky. For some years he has given his services with marked success to the work of the American Medical Association.

It has been erroneously stated that his work is the organization of local medical societies in each State. Dr. McGuire points out the error of this, saying that he is doing nothing of the kind except incidentally. "Every State except Maine and Virginia, has long since been organized on the plan recommended by the American Medical Association. The organization is fairly well established, and membership is now within the reach of nearly every physician in the country. Dr. McCormack's work is purely altruistic."

Dr. McCormack's most notable work has been the bringing together of the layman and the medical man in a joint understanding of many topics.

First in his own State, Kentucky, and later in Pennsylvania, California, and elsewhere, he found laymen in attendance at what he supposed were to be strictly medical meetings, and it was necessary to do so, to modify and simplify his talk as to adapt it to the layman.

Later, it began to dawn on him that physicians come so closely into the daily life of all the people, that all classes can be interested and brought into sympathy with everything that concerns the scientific, social and material welfare of the profession, if these matters be presented in plain and simple language.

In speaking of the popular meetings which Dr. McCormack has been holding recently in many cities the Journal of the American Association, issue of February 24, says:

"At these meetings the curious intimate complex relations to the people of the individual physician and of the profession as a whole are freely and frankly discussed, and the defects of the profession are pointed out. The danger to the people from poverty in the profession, and their part in practical measures for relief of this evil, are frankly discussed and fully appreciated. In a word, Dr. McCormack takes the public into his confidence and shows its deep concern in every interest of the profession. He shows up fraud and quackery in their true light, and the 'patent medicine' evil is pointed out. At the conclusion of his talk there is always free discussion by laymen representing the leaders of public opinion, who are ever found in sympathetic accord and ready to pledge cordial assistance in the great reform work that has been proposed."

Schedule of Lectures.

Dr. McCormack is a graceful speaker, with a constant under-current of humor, which holds the attention of his audience. It is said that he received an ovation in Alabama a few days since, when he lectured before the Legislature by special request, and also before the University of Alabama, at Mobile. The work of Dr. McCormack has resulted in bringing the public and the profession together in a friendly and profitable way.

The schedule of his addresses, as announced by Dr. Stuart McGuire last night, is as follows:

Saturday, March 23, 1 P. M., to the students of the medical colleges; 5 P. M., to the members of the medical profession of the city; 8:30 P. M., to the public. All three addresses will be delivered in the Young Men's Christian Association, and there will be no charge for admission, and no cards will be issued, the public at large being especially invited to the evening meeting.

Baptist Committee Meets.

The committee, which has been called to prepare for the coming Southern Baptist Convention, will meet at the Grace Street Baptist Church this evening for the purpose of discussing the work of the members of the city, and one hour from each Baptist Church of the city. It has been decided that there should be two lay members from each church, only one being provided for.

The objects of this meeting are to organize as a committee, map out the work of the members of the city, and to submit recommendations to the Southern Baptist Convention.

To Report Budget.

A called meeting of the Common Council will be held Tuesday night for the purpose of reporting the budget for the year 1907.

It is said that there will be some surprise in the report which will be made.

VETERAN HOSTS TO MOVE ON CITY

More Camps and More Representatives Expected Here Than Ever Before.

BIG ATTENDANCE FROM WEST

General Cabell Urges Trans-Mississippi Division to Have Grand Final Rally.

Indications are that the Confederate Reunion in Richmond the last week in May and the first of June will be one of the largest attended of the fifteen reunions that have been held, the general cry throughout the South and Southwest being "On to Richmond."

General W. L. Cabell, commander of the Trans-Mississippi Division, has issued the following orders to his department:

"I call on the division and brigade commanders of every State and Territory to issue at once the necessary orders that will increase the number of camps, so that the ranks of the Blues, as they have nowhere to drill, except on the streets, and it is still too cold for the men to expose themselves in the light summer uniforms. Headquarters have been established at 1208 East Main Street, where the members of the division are to meet and discuss the progress of affairs."

The Blues are hoping much that the city will be liberal with them in the way of buying them a site and building thereon an armory for them. This matter, however, will not come up until the next meeting of the Council, when the budget for the year will be made up.

In all other lines the organization is progressing very rapidly in recovering from the recent strike. The proposed third company will become a fact, and the committee—Major Bowles and Captains Patten and Burwell—which has this matter in charge will endeavor to have a third company organized.

The motion to have a third company added to the ranks of the Blues was made before the association in a meeting held last night at the city hall, with immediate favor. Another company would add much to the military appearance of the Blues, and would be a good thing for the city as well.

The subject will be reported on as soon as the committee has looked the field over and secured suitable material, with which to form the nucleus of the new company.

The Junior Howitzers has recently been organized into the ranks of the Blues. They will have to be uniformed later, and this will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000. The committee will have to look for the money to form the nucleus of the organization.

The Junior Howitzers is the name of an organization of youths recently formed in this city, in which the members are demonstrating considerable interest. Though having no equipment, the boys are in earnest in their preparation for the regimental armory every week. Captain Polley and his lieutenants are showing special interest in the command.

The Junior Howitzers and some of the members of Company C, the regiment, are endeavoring to promote interest in athletics among the military, and are forming a track and field team. The boys will some day prove desirable recruits for the historic battery the name of which they have taken.

Signal Lights Failed.

Considerable confusion was caused yesterday afternoon by the burning out of the signal lights for the elevator service in the Mutual Building.

The accident happened about 6 o'clock, when a large number of people were leaving the building. The elevator men, who were waiting outside, were unable to get into the building, and the result was a great deal of confusion.

The schedule of his addresses, as announced by Dr. Stuart McGuire last night, is as follows:

Saturday, March 23, 1 P. M., to the students of the medical colleges; 5 P. M., to the members of the medical profession of the city; 8:30 P. M., to the public. All three addresses will be delivered in the Young Men's Christian Association, and there will be no charge for admission, and no cards will be issued, the public at large being especially invited to the evening meeting.

BLUES STILL IN UNCLE OF ARMY

Have Secured About Half of What Is Necessary.

TO FORM THIRD COMPANY

Will Have Uniformed Band of Twenty-Six Pieces.

It was stated last night that the Richmond Light Infantry Blues had secured only about one-half of the amount they will require for the purchase of their new uniforms. Major Bowles said last night that the major military organization will need about $8,500 for this purpose, and that they will need to have it all in hand by April 10th, the date on which the new uniforms will be finished in the making and be in the hands of the men, ready to be worn. Mr. Henry Lee Valentine is at the head of the subscription committee, and he is making a great endeavor to raise the required amount in time. The Blues, however, have $3,000 coming to them in insurance, and this will help materially in completing the amount they need for uniforms.

The dress and the full-dress uniforms have to be paid for by the Blues themselves, while the United States government furnishes the summer and winter service uniforms, rifles and all other necessary accoutrements for the field. They have received the khaki uniforms.

Counsel for Mr. H. C. Hechler yesterday made a new move in connection with the action removing him from office for malfeasance by again presenting the petition to Judge Scott asking a rehearing of the case. This petition was presented to the judge in the morning, and was refused by Judge Scott on the ground that the term had ended and the court was not at that time in session.

Judge Scott convened a special term of the Circuit Court on Monday for the entering of certain chancery orders, no venire or jury being summoned. Mr. D. C. O'Flaherty, of counsel for Mr. Hechler, again presented the petition for rehearing to the judge yesterday afternoon, when he was sitting in the City Circuit Court. Judge Scott, after reading the petition and hearing argument of counsel, declined a rehearing, making the following endorsement:

"The within petition was presented to the judge of the Circuit Court in the City of Richmond, Va., on Monday, February 19, 1907, and was refused by the judge on the ground that the term had ended and the court was not at that time in session."

Upon the refusal of the petition for rehearing, counsel for Mr. Hechler noted an exception, and the list of exceptions in the case was prepared and filed with the clerk of the court. The case will now go to the Supreme Court of Appeals, counsel asking for a writ of error and stay of proceedings. In case the Court of Appeals declines to issue a writ of error, the case will proceed to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The original order of Judge Scott, directing Mr. Hechler to turn over his books and papers to the clerk of the court, will go into effect.
